STRIKE WAS A SHORT LIVED ONE

Laborers on New Track
Want Higher Wages.

Demanded Two Dollars for Ten Hours Instead of $1.75.

Lay Down Their Shovels, State Demands, Receive Time Checks and Quit Work.

On Thursday a short-lived strike was inaugurated by the men working on the new track which is being laid from Buena Vista to the Oregon Short Line station.

The new track will permit passenger trains of the Salt Lake Route to head in and out of the station instead of backing as at present. In order to speedily overcome this situation, work on the branch from Buena Vista branch has been pushed with all haste possible. All went well it seems until Thursday morning, when some of the men got their heads together and decided that ten hours' work in the hot sun was worth more than $1.75. Knowing the anxiety of the Short Line management to push the work to a hasty completion, they decided that the time was opportune for a strike. A spokesman was selected and at a given signal the men dropped their picks and shovels and marched over to the foreman. They made their demands in no unqualified terms—"Two dollars a day or we quit."

The foreman said that he could do nothing for them and referred them to the engineer's office. A delegation was speedily dispatched to make the demand, while the hundred or so strikers loafed about or sought the shade of a sheltering tree until the delegation returned.
At headquarters the delegation met with the chief of the division and were politely informed that they could quit if they did like the pay. The members of the delegation then asked for and received their time checks. Slowly they proceeded back to their respective fellows and informed them of their non-success. About forty of the men, it is reported, proved "game" and followed the course of the strike.
Some of the other men laid off for Thursday and Friday, but the most of them went back at work yesterday.

The strikers consisted principally of Italians and Swedes. The places made vacant by the strikers have been for the most part filled and according to reports of the engineering department of the Short Line the work will go on uninterrupted Monday several of the remaining strikers will probably return and with that the incident will be closed.
